Family Acceptance Project® (FAP) (Family Acceptance Project) is a project that supports families of LGBTQ+ individuals. FAP aims to provide resources and support to families to promote LGBTQ+ youth health and well-being. FAP's mission is to empower families to support their LGBTQ+ children to reduce the risk of negative outcomes such as suicide and substance abuse.

FAP provides families with information and resources to help them support their LGBTQ+ children. FAP's website offers a range of resources, including articles, workshops, and training materials. FAP's team of experts provides guidance and support to families to help them navigate the challenges of raising LGBTQ+ children.

The Family Acceptance Project® (FAP) website is available at https://familyproject.sfsu.edu/.
Family Acceptance Project®

Family Acceptance Project® (FAP) is a collaborative initiative led by San Francisco State University (SFSU) and the Desirainbow Family Center. The project is supported by the Department of Health and Human Services, Administration for Children and Families, Children’s Bureau, and the Children’s Defense Fund. The project is designed to support families and caregivers of LGBTQ children and youth by providing them with resources, training, and a community of support. The website for the project is https://familyproject.sfsu.edu/
